ARKANSAS: Cloudy with occasional rain this afternoon, Friday possibly turning to freezing rain or snow tonight, Friday, in North west Arkansas this afternoon.

Snow, Freezing Rain Predicted Tonight, Friday

By The Associated Press

Snow or freezing rain was in prospect for Arkansas today and Friday with temperatures expected to drop to 5 degrees tonight in extreme northwest.

Winty weather, which dumped more than two inches of rain at Fayetteville yesterday, brought snow to Fayetteville early today. The U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock forecast occasional rain turning to freezing rain or snow for the remaining portions of Arkansas this afternoon and Friday.

Power failures, blamed on the weather, were reported by Arkansas Power & Light Co. at Monticello and in the Harrison area.

Weathermen forecast high water to the flood stage or above for several points on the Ouachita, Black and White rivers.

Rainfall for the 24-hour period which ended at 6 a. m. today measured 2.86 inches at Walnut Ridge and 2.13 at Fort Smith. Other rain fall included 1.98 inches at Ft. P. 1.91 at Little Rock, 1.49 at El Dorado, 1.17 at Pine Bluff and 1.11 at Texarkana.

Fayetteville recorded a low of 26 degrees last night, but most readings ranged in the 30s and 40s.

Hundreds of rural residents of the Harrison area were without electricity today. An AP&L spokesman said the "blackout" resulted from ice on power lines. Work crews were sent to restore service.

Monticello residents were with cut power for about 30 minutes starting at 1:04 a. m. The AP&L servicemen, investigating a reported explosion, found the automatic switches at the distribution service station open. There was no damage and power was restored immediately. The servicemen said the switches apparently were opened by a direct hit by lightning.

River forecasts issued by the Weather Bureau, call for 5 feet of water in the Ouachita River at Arkadelphia today, just one foot below flood stage. At Camden, the Ouachita level is expected to be 25 feet, three feet above flood stage, by Sunday.

The Black River is expected to reach 7 or 8 feet Saturday at Black Rock where flood stage is considered 14 feet.

The White River at Augusta is expected to rise to the 27-foot stage, by Monday. The forecast calls for the White to be up to 27 feet Feb 10 at Clarendon where the flood stage is 28 feet.

Only a slow rise is forecast for the Arkansas River.

Three Residents of Memphis Killed

By The Associated Press

Three young Memphis residents rode to their deaths yesterday in a blinding rainstorm which obscured a curving approach to a bridge on state Highway 22 near Charleston.

The tragedy raised Arkansas' violent death toll since last Sunday midnight to seven.

State Trooper Mack Burton said the Memphisians were killed when their car crashed into a bridge abutment after careening off the pavement on the curve approach to the bridge.

Dead are Douglas Gammell, 25, his sister, Imogene Gammell, 20, and Gerald Montgomery, 24.

Trooper Burton said the driver of the car, which was traveling at a high speed, apparently lost control as the car entered the curve. It plunged off the pavement, crashed through three guard posts and slammed into the abutment.

At the time of the accident, said Burton, heavy rain shrouded the highway.

Hays May Draw Opposition

By The Associated Press

A young Little Rock lawyer won't say whether he'll challenge Rep. Hays for the 5th District seat in Congress next summer, but a veteran of the state Senate drew an opponent yesterday.

William H. Donham, 35-year-old deputy prosecuting attorney of Pulaski County, declined yesterday to affirm or deny reports that he will run against Hays in the Democratic primaries. Hays, who has served seven terms in the U. S. House of Representatives, is expected to announce nomination.

Russell C. Roberts, who has served three terms as Pulaski County representative in the state House, filed yesterday as a candidate for the 14th District Senate seat now held by Guy H. (Mutt) ones.

Jones, an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1954, has announced that he'll seek re-nomination, but hasn't qualified yet for the race.

Both Roberts and ones are practicing attorneys at Conway.

FDR's Letter on Kelly's Son Delivered

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — A famous letter Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote 10 days after the 1941 Pearl Harbor attack to "the President of the United States in 1950" has been delivered at last to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The World War II President's letter asked consideration for "the merits of a young American of goodly heritage, Colin P. Kelly III — for appointment as a cadet in the United States military at West Point."

Young Kelly — then an infant and now a 6-foot, 15-year-old high school sophomore — is the son of Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., the United States' first hero of the war, killed in a bombing mission in the Pacific a few days after Pearl Harbor.

Colin III lives at Concordville, Pa., near Philadelphia, with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson Pedlow. He attends Westtown Friends School, a Quaker institution.

Pre-school Clinic for Negro Pupils

The county nurse, Mrs. Inez Turner, has designated Monday, February 6, as the date for registering and filling in health records for all children who will be old enough to begin school in September, 1956.

Mothers and guardians are asked to take their child or children to the Health Office in the County Court house for this registration.

All children who are now 6 years old or who will be 6 years old on or before December 31, 1956 should be reported at this time.

Pupils who will attend Shover Street Elementary School will report at 9 a. m. Pupils who will attend Hopewell school will report at 1 p. m.

Two P. T. A. members of Yenger P. T. A. and two from Hopewell P. T. A. will assist in registering these pupils.

Commercialism Is Necessary to TV But Why Make Actors Give Out With a Sales Pitch

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The other morning as I was going to work — a bit late, for the first time that day — My eye was caught by my daughter.

She was lying flat on the floor working over her post-breakfast bottle. She was staring at her television screen showing a grown-up, milk-bottle-looking fellow who himself was sucking at an imitation milk bottle whose theoretical contents were visibly lowered as he said something like this:

"All right, kiddies, it's milk time. Let's go now. Not too fast, but—"

Well, I simply stood there fascinated, I was swept by awe and fear of the art of advertising. I wondered how soon my daughter, having been sold on the virtues of milk, would start worrying about deodorants.

Somewhat, clover-sweet as she is at 2½ years old, I hugged the idea that Tracy Ann, my daughter, would learn femininity from her mother, my wife. I don't want my child to learn delicacy from an ad man's fear pitch.

What is the impact of television on the average family? What is right and what is wrong with television up to now?

Here are a few off-the-cuff observations — some person, some not — of the new one-eyed monster in our living room:

My daughter likes to identify Pinky Lee, Lassie, Rin-Tin-Tin, the Lone Ranger and other staple childhood fodder — she likes Ollie the dragon but is suspicious of Howdy Doodie. Then usually she walks away, having survived the

Arkansas Comedian Bob Burns of 'Bazooka' Fame Dies at Age of 64, Victim of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) — Bob (Bazooka) Burns, Ozark comedian who made a fortune spinning tall tales about his relatives in Van Buren, Ark., died of cancer today. He was 64.

Burns was in a coma since Saturday at West Valley Community hospital where he was being treated for cancer of the kidney. His physician, Dr. David Hertz, said the comedian underwent surgery three years ago and had been in declining health ever since.

Burns' wife Harriet, once his secretary, was at his bedside when he died. They eloped to Las Vegas, Nev. in 1937.

The comedian also is survived by their three children, Barbara, 17; Robin, 16, and Stephen, 15. Burns also had a son, Robert, 33, by his first wife, who died in 1936.

Inactive in show business the past ten years, Burns was bedridden for most of the past five years.

His sly hillbilly humor and bazooka were a national laugh remedy during the depression years of the 1930s. Stories about his Uncle Fud and Grandpa Snazzy were national bywords.

The barefoot-voiced comedian came to Hollywood in 1930 after a checkered career that had as many ups and downs as his beloved Ozark hills.

Educated at the University of Arkansas, Burns' hick town antics were merely part of an act that began when he joined a touring minstrel show in 1911. After seven years of vaudeville and eight more with carnivals, he returned to the hills to farm peanuts.

Later he worked as a civil engineer in Salt Lake City where he organized a vaudeville troupe. When that venture failed he took a job pitching hay. It was during a brief period when he worked as a plumber that Burns assembled his bazooka.

Composed of a pair of rusty gas pipes and a whiskey funnel, the bazooka became Burns' trademark. During World War I American fighting men dubbed the Army's anti-tank weapon after the comedian's novel musical instrument.

Burns served in the Marines during World War I, becoming a gunnery sergeant and champion rifleman in the AEF.

Back from the war, he played his bazooka in New York night clubs. His first big break was on Rudy Vallee's radio program. He later moved to Bing Crosby's Music Hall show before winning a

Says MacArthur Lost Touch With U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman says he thinks Gen. Douglas MacArthur became too "wrapped up in the East" and lost touch with this country during his 14-year absence.

Truman both praises and criticizes MacArthur in the latest installment of his memoirs, appearing in Life magazine. But he expresses regret that the general who remained in the Far East from 1938 until Truman fired him early in 1951, didn't visit this country more often "to familiarize himself with the situation at home."

Only two months after MacArthur took command of U. N. forces fighting in the Korean War, Truman said, he considered sending Gen. Omar Bradley to replace MacArthur in the command. MacArthur would have continued in charge of the Japanese occupation.

But Truman says, "After weighing it carefully, I decided against such a step. It would have been difficult to avoid the appearance of a demotion, and I had no desire to hurt Gen. MacArthur personally."

In New York, an aide to MacArthur said the general had no immediate comment.

Hunted Youth Lived in House of Officer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Emmett Earl Leggett, a 19-year-old ex-convict who was sought for four weeks by sheriff's deputies for questioning in the murder of little Joe King, lived the entire time at the house which his parents rented — from a deputy sheriff.

Sheriff Tom Guley last night confirmed a charge by the dead boy's mother, Mrs. James R. King, that Leggett and his parents were living in a Jacksonville house owned by Deputy Sheriff Ed Boyd.

However, Guley vehemently denied that his deputies should have found Leggett earlier, despite a tip from another officer. He said Boyd is a jailer and didn't know that Leggett was being hunted by deputies assigned to criminal investigation duties.

Leggett was captured by two air policemen, who said they caught him raping a teenage Jacksonville girl in his car, parked near a state road. The policemen investigated the car after finding the girl's sister dying naked, and badly beaten, beside the road.

Turned over to county officers, Leggett admitted that he raped both girls, and after further questioning also said he strangled the 14-year-old King boy on the night of Dec. 23. The dead youth resisted abnormal sexual advances, officers quoted Leggett as saying in written statement on the crime.

Leggett is undergoing a sanity examination at the State Hospital. He has been charged with first degree murder and two counts of rape, all capital offenses, and Prosecutor Frank Holt says he'll demand the death penalty for the youth.

Mrs. Leggett had been living in Jacksonville during the search for him. She said that she didn't want to embarrass the sheriff's office but added, "They didn't make any bones about hurting us."

Mrs. King's husband, an Air Force sergeant stationed at the Little Rock base, was questioned in the death of the boy, his stepson, and released from custody only after submitting to a lie detector test.

One Charged With Robbery Incompetent

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One of two brothers under federal bank robbery charges in the $10,000 holdup of a branch bank Joiner last August has been declared mentally incompetent to stand trial.

U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley, after hearing testimony of a government psychiatrist, yesterday ruled that William Albert Anderson of Augusta is incapable of understanding the charges against him. The decision delayed Anderson's trial indefinitely.

Judge's Ruling Says Southland Can't Be Halted

By The Associated Press

If Chancellor W. Leon Smith is correct in his interpretation of Arkansas' 21-year-old dog racing law, the possibility exists that anyone who can meet statutory financial and moral requirements can open a dog track anywhere in Arkansas, and the state would be powerless to stop him.

Chancellor Smith ruled yesterday that the Arkansas Racing Commission overstepped its authority when it rejected an application for a franchise to operate a new 1½ million dollar dog track, at West Memphis.

Smith noted that the commission said only that it thought the track wasn't "in the best interest" of the state, in turning down Southland's bid. That's the reason enough, Judge Smith ruled.

Only the Legislature can determine wherein lie the state's best interests, and the Racing Commission has no authority to refuse an operating permit to prospective operators who conform with standards established by the Legislature.

The decision represented a resounding victory for Southland. Judge Smith's decision was identical to the specific ground on which the track challenged the commission's action.

Okay Delays Expansion of Plant — It Says

NASHVILLE, (AP) — Plans to spend six million dollars to expand Ideal Cement Co., plant at Okay, Ark., have been dropped until a dispute over construction of Millwood Dam on Little River is settled.

M. O. Matthews, executive vice president of the company, said yesterday at Denver that the expansion will be held up. He said that if a reservoir is formed by the proposed dam, railroad lines to the plant 4 miles south of here will be cut off.

The U. S. Engineers recently announced that the original plan to build a combination dam and reservoir at Millwood had been changed to call for open flood gates and no reservoir. Such a move was supported by the Little River Valley Improvement Association.

However, the Southwest Arkansas Water District, organized to work toward a return to the original plan, said the reservoir is needed to assure a continuous water supply, and thus spur the industrial development of the area.

Congress has approved construction of the Millwood Dam, but never has appropriated funds to start work.

38,300 Citizens Die in Traffic Accidents in '55

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents killed 38,300 Americans in 1955 — one of the heaviest tolls in history.

The motor vehicle held its perilous place as the No. 1 killer in accidents.

The National Safety Council today reported that last year: Accidents of all types brought death to 92,000 persons, injured 9,200,000 and resulted in $10,300,000,000 in financial setbacks — such as equipment and property damage, lost wages and medical expenses.

Traffic accidents alone cost 38,300 lives, approximately 1,350,000 nonfatal injuries and $4,700,000,000 in terms of cash.

Last year's motor vehicle death toll tied with the 1933 toll for the third highest on record. It was 1,669 under the all-time high of 39,969 reached in 1941 and approached closer to the 39,643 registered in 1937, the runnerup year.

The 1955 traffic toll showed an 8 per cent gain over the 35,586 total of 1954.

Traffic deaths rode a steady upward trend last year, and seemed to record holiday heights during the Christmas period. The December toll of 3,860 was the largest for any month since December 1941.

Florida Seeks Way to Best Hurricanes

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The greatest concentrated attack ever made on one of man's most pressing weather problems — how to forestall disaster with perfect hurricane forecasts — will be launched in Florida in May.

Robert H. Simpson, tall, hard-driving research expert of the U. S. Weather Bureau's Washington staff disclosed final plans for the ambitious project today after a conference here with Navy and Air Force experts who will participate.

Coming on the heels of history's most terrible hurricane season, the immediate aim of the program, in which scores of scientists of several nations will participate, will be to perfect a foolproof 24-hour hurricane forecast.

Later, they expect to develop forecasting techniques to a point where weathermen can say three days in advance when and at what place a hurricane will hit the coast.

And in working toward this goal, they hope by cloud seeding to find a way to avert future tragedies by steering these mighty tropical storms away from densely populated areas.

AIDC Seeking to Get Arkansas Advanced From Bracket of Low Paying Food, Lumber Industries

By TOM DYGDARD

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Heavy industry affects a peoples' pocketbook like bread and gravy affects the tummy, and small industry compares to lettuce.

Arkansas' tummy, unaccustomed to an industrial payroll, is being fed lettuce — the low-paying industries like lumbering, food processing and garment manufacturing.

There's very little bread and gravy — the high-paying industries like petroleum and steel — to fatten the paycheck.

But for a state like Arkansas, trying to gain its first foothold in the industrial world, industry is the industrial world, industry is the industrial world, industry is the industrial world.

William P. Rock, director of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

"No industry is a detriment," says Rock. "We are concentrating on everything, and taking advantage of all opportunities."

True, Arkansas' industry mainly is the small caliber type. It calls for unskilled workers and, naturally, pays lower wages. The result trial paycheck is quite a few rungs below the average of some of her neighboring states.

But as Rock sees it, Arkansas is neither subnormal nor backward because of this. The state is in the normal position in what he calls a "natural pattern."

Simply put, the "natural pattern" is this — first, no industry; second, a low-paying industry that puts unskilled workers on the payroll; third, a heavy industry that requires skilled laborers and pays higher salaries.

The ideal position, of course, is the third stage but Rock says, "Some places are desperate for any kind of a payroll."

That is the purpose of the AIDC. It was brought into being by the 1955 Arkansas General Assembly.

And a possible third advantage, says Rock, is that the heavier—and higher-paying—industries generally follow the lower-paying ones into an area. Its part of the "natural pattern."

Arkansas, with about one of every three of its industrial workers engaged either in the lowpaying food, lumber or furniture industries, stacks up pretty sadly with its next door neighbors in cold statistics.

Jury Deliberates Perjury Case

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury today begins deliberating the perjury case of Paul H. Hughes, whose claim of being a tool in a political plot has come under heavy fire from prosecution witnesses.

In summing up yesterday, defense counsel Martin Erdmann admitted Hughes was "venal, greedy and unethical" but said he was the dupe of political foes of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.). U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams.

in his summation, termed Hughes' testimony "the mere imaginings" of a "strange, deluded man."

Hughes, 35-year-old World War II veteran, went on trial Jan. 27 on six counts of perjury stemming from testimony before a federal grand jury probing Harvey M. Matusow, former Communist who turned informer and then repudiated his testimony.

Gardenia Garden Club
The Gardenia Garden Club met Wednesday February 1, in the home of Mrs. J. W. Perkins for their monthly meeting, with the President, Mrs. Jack Hogg presiding.

Mrs. C. C. Lewis had charge of the program and presented Mrs. J. C. Carlton who had as her subject, "Roses." Mrs. Carlton, in a most interesting manner gave a sermonette on the rose, followed by prayer by Mrs. C. C. Lewis. She also told of the legend of the Christmas rose and a quiz was held with Mrs. Jack Hogg winning the prize. Cultivation and care of roses was brought out in her talk most effectively.

Mrs. Hogg, announced that the zone meeting to be April 4, would be held in Hope, and that April 15 was the date set for the Flower Show. Also plans are being made for a permanent home for Garden Clubs in St. Louis; and she reminded the club of the 25th annual convention of the Garden Clubs to be in Hot Springs May 2, 3, and 4th with Mrs. Marie Johnson Fort, nationally known flower lecturer and author, as guest speaker. She wrote the book, "Flower Arrangements for All Occasions." Also the National President, Mrs. Bradley Morrish will be present. The club voted to give $5.00 to the March of Dimes, and during

Arkansas Sells Plant for $151,000

LITTLE ROCK, (UP) — The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission today accepted a bid of $151,000 from the Norris Manufacturing Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., for purchase of the abandoned Westinghouse plant near Hot Springs.

William P. Rock, executive director of the AIDC, said the company hoped to start operations at the plant sometime between August and November. The firm, which manufactures coin operated and other types of dispensers, already has a plant in operation at Bald Knob.

Rock said the Hot Springs plant will produce internal parts for the shell of dispensers to be manufactured at Bald Knob.

The Norris company still must install plumbing and heating at the 100,000 square foot building located five miles southeast of Hot Springs on Highway 270.

Westinghouse originally built the plant to produce glass to use in the manufacture of light bulbs. It later found it could obtain the glass cheaper from other producers and gave the building to the state with a quit claim deed. The plan was to be used for the state Dec. 3, 1955, under provisions of a legislative act.

The AIDC then required several months for appraisal of the property, and advertised for bids.

The Norris company plans to employ between 600 and 700 persons at the Hot Springs plant within a year after going into operation.

The Bald Knob plant will employ between 200 and 300 persons within the next four to five months. The company also has plants at Minneapolis.

Adults Keep Vigil Over Students

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP) — Weary adults kept a vigil over elementary school pupils last night marooned by New Mexico's first strong blast of winter.

Across the drift-ribbed street from the snowbound school in an outlying district were 26 more pupils in homes of sympathetic neighbors.

Keeping watch at the school were Principal William Nabors, eight parents, 19 teachers and two custodians.

"The neighbors across the street have been wonderfully cooperative," said the principal.

"Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, many parents managed to drive here and take 40 other children home. Then the storm closed in. Soon you couldn't get a car any closer than three blocks away."

"Later in the evening the neighbors across the street and in the next block down began telephoning and offering assistance. They took most of the children, fed them and bedded them down. They began bringing in hot food, so we were well taken care of."

In a telephone interview, Nabors said snow had drifted up to the windows on the west side of the one-story, 20-room building, and a stiff east wind was blowing snow so hard that "visibility still was zero" early this morning.

Nabors said drifts had piled up "at least six feet deep" around a city bus which had stopped to pick up children on a regular run to their homes. "At least 20 autos are stranded in front of the school," he said.

The gas heating system was holding up well, the principal said, and the children were "comfortably bedded down on cots in the teachers lounge and clinic."

Foreign Money Important to Movies Now

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Did you know that—

About 45 per cent of the film industry's take now comes from abroad.

This figure is suspected to increase constantly.

Most movie are now made with an eye to the foreign market.

These enlightening facts come from Alfred E. Daff, executive vice president of Universal-Inter-

Waldo Girl Wins Lion Scholarship

EL DORADO, ARK. — A $1,000.00 college scholarship was presented today to Julia Ann O'Daniel, 17-year-old senior in the Waldo, Ark., high school, in the second Lion Oil

Julia Ann O'Daniel Scholarship Fund essay contest of the current school year.

The presentation was made in a formal ceremony held before the Waldo high school student body and a large number of invited guests. Allen J. Fincher, superintendent, acted as master of ceremonies.

Julia Ann's essay on "Why I Am Glad to be an American" was chosen as the best of hundreds entered in a contest zone embracing Arkansas and a portion of Louisiana and Texas, according to C. R. Olson, Director of the Fund. Fifteen additional students in the zone were adjudged Merit Award winners, and they and their teacher-sponsors each received a $25 cash award.

REASON WHY

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UP) — Mayor Alexander Vinciburg admitted he was surprised when Edger Dinkelspiel told him the national symbol had disappeared from a weather vane atop city hall.

Commissioner Paul Kiernan told the mayor the eagle had been removed to prevent it from falling on a passerby.

Chimborazo, the volcanic mountain in the Andes of Ecuador, is only 100 miles south of the equator yet it is permanently snow-covered because of its great height (20,702 feet) above sea level.

national and head of its foreign division. He points up the revolution in film economy.

Once Hollywood was supported by American moviegoers. The foreign receipts were gravy. But now the film industry could not continue on its present basis without the foreign business.

"The movie business would survive—it always has," said Daff. "But the whole setup would have to be changed."

Fortunately, no such calamity as the loss of the foreign market impedes Daff foresees increased prosperity for Hollywood.

"The reason for the increase in foreign receipts is simple," he explained. "Since the war, the standards of living in foreign lands have risen so much that the people now have extra money to spend beyond the cost of food, clothing and shelter. They have more to spend on movies, which are the most universal form of entertainment."

"Fortunately, Americans have a knack of making films that are more popular than anyone else's. With four billion people in the world and 165 million Americans it is logical that an increasing share of our profits will come from abroad."

How has this changed studio thinking?

"All of our pictures are calculated for their impact on the foreign market as well as the American. Only a few films are made without a foreign appeal. These are pictures about American sports and films like Ma and Pa Kettle, which are great here but not as great abroad, with the exception of Australia."

"Likewise we make films that are not so popular here but liked by foreigners. These include what we call the 'sex-and-sand' films—the romantic adventures of

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Before Mother Is the Rule to Follow

Dear Miss Dix: I read your column always and now I have a problem which I hope you can solve. When I married 10 years ago my husband and I moved in with my widowed mother and shared her three-and-a-half-room apartment. Mother owns the house and, though there is another apartment in it, she refused to rent this second place to us.

Anyway, we got along very well until our two children arrived. Then my husband felt we should have an apartment of our own. Mother's place was quite congested and there wasn't much privacy. Of course, since it was my mother, I didn't mind much. I am an only child so felt responsible for my mother, although she goes to business.

Well, we did find a place of our own and my mother carried on something awful. She still harps on the subject constantly, although we moved about six months ago. Consequently I am very unhappy. I see Mom almost every night but feel sorry for her when I leave. Even though the small apartment was crowded, I'd love to go back but my husband will not give up his home now.

I just can't understand how I was talked into making the move.

ADELE

Answer: Your husband has been a long-suffering, patient man, and I guess the reason you finally consented to the move was that you read the handwriting on the wall and saw rebellion if you continued to put Mom first.

It's very difficult for many parents, and some children, to accept the fact that when a girl marries, her first allegiance must be switched from parent to husband. A daughter who is not prepared to prove the rule.

One of the things that destroys realism most is to have an artist perform a role, then step out of character and immediately make a sales pitch.

The duty of the artist in television today is to gain an audience. To ask him to go on from here is to demand both himself and the product he is required to plug.

Commercialism is necessary in television, but not in that manner. It will die out more money, can afford to be more independent, and the realization grows that there are better ways to put a message across.

put her husband first shouldn't get married. If she can't grow beyond the stage of being "my little girl" to her mother, she hasn't acquired sufficient maturity to cope with the manifold problems of matrimony.

She's Not Trying
Had your mother been the least bit inclined to co-operate, she could have rented you the other apartment in her house, which would at least have given you more room and privacy. Her distillation to do so was due to certainty that you would never leave her small place for one of your own.

You are certainly a dutiful daughter; can you make the same claim as a wife? With the attention your mother is receiving, she has no complaint, if her protests continue unabated, leave her alone for a while. It may sound like cruel treatment, but she, too, must accept facts.

She is no longer your sole charge, nor should she be the chief one. Going back to her small apartment would be folly of the highest order. Your husband is entitled to something besides crowded discomfort. Think of him for a change.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been in college for two years, and have gone steady with Alma for one year. She wants to get married now, but I am not financially able to support her and go to school too. I do feel that college education will mean a lot to me. She thinks I won't marry her because I don't love her, but that isn't so. I love her very much indeed.

Alma thinks she could quit school, get a job and I could get a part-time job. In that way we could manage, but when I marry I want to support my wife. I don't want to lose Alma, yet I want to prove the rule.

a college education. Answer: Rushing into marriage isn't necessarily a sign of love. Alma's headlong dive into the sea of matrimony could prove nothing more than that she's losing all her friends via the middle aisle, and would like to try it herself. If she really loved you, your feelings would have more weight. You're right in sticking to college for another two years and at your age you both have time to wait.

Carter Is Decided by Andrade
 By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—It was a pleasure to walk into Jimmy Carter's dressing room at Chicago Stadium last night.

He had just lost a close official decision to Cisco Andrade, 26, a nifty little fighter from Compton, Calif., who has been beaten only twice in 35 bouts.

Most of the ringside sports writers at the nationally televised 10-rounder gave Carter the edge. The Associated Press card favored him 97-95.

Carter, sitting relaxed on a bench in his quarters, spoke like the champion he once was. Three times he has won the lightweight crown and three times he has lost it.

"There's no sense getting mad—you can't change a decision," he said quietly. "Andrade is a good fast boy. I've always been known as a slow starter. I thought I had him from the sixth on. I worked him over well in the fourth. When I went down in that round it was definitely a slip."

In most cases, a fighter who has dropped such a decision would be happy about it. But Carter took it like a gentleman.

Some Bible scholars speculate that Jesus might have worked as a carpenter when Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great, rebuilt Sepphoris, less than five miles from Nazareth where He lived.

Carter his 100th bout was one of the best he ever fought and indicated he was entitled to a rematch.

Despite his years in the ring and age (he's going on 33), Carter still showed sharp reflexes in his first scrap since failing to regain his title from Wallace (Bug) Smith last Oct. 28.

But Andrade was the official winner as Judge E. A. Frankel and Referee Joe White scored in his favor 95-91 and 96-95 respectively. Judge Lou Cappatelli favored Carter 97-95.

Andrade, a professional boxer, was the official winner of the fight.

32 Women Open Hollywood Meet

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UP)—A field of 32 links lassies, including four Curtis cup stars and two teen-aged daughters of teaching professionals, teed off today in the annual Hollywood Women's Four-Ball Match Play golf tournament for amateur swingers.

There was no standout favorite among the glamour gal golfers and a wide open tournament was expected. Neither the 1954 nor 1955 championship teams were back to defend their titles.

Heading four separate two member teams were the Curtis Cup golfers, Ann Quast of Marysville, Wash., Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, Jane Nelson of Indianapolis, and Betty Scott Probasco of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The teams will engage in match-play eliminations until Sunday when the two surviving twosomes will play a 36-hole championship finale.

Porks Edge TCU, Set Stage for SMU Battle

By The Associated Press
 The pressure will be on Arkansas and the odds on Southern Methodist when the two titans of the Southwest Conference clash at Fayetteville Saturday night, with undisputed first place in the scramble for the league basketball championship on the line.

Arkansas escaped from Texas Christian with a 74-72 triumph last night when a tremendous surge by the Horned Frogs was stopped by the clock. The Razorbacks now have five victories without a defeat.

The record matches that of Southern Methodist, who whipped the same TCU ball club last week 105-64 in an astonishing display of offensive skill.

SMU will enter Saturday's game on the Razorbacks' court with a far better season record, 13-2, a national ranking of 17th and a previous decision over the Porks.

In the only meeting of the teams this season, the Ponies downed Arkansas 67-62.

Added to the advantage of playing at home, Arkansas will have an added incentive of knowing it can match in victories the 7-game losing streak with which it opened the season. That string of defeats is the longest ever suffered by a Razorbacks team since basketball became a varsity sport at the university 34 years ago. A victory over SMU also would even at 8-8 the season record of the Porks.

In registering their sixth consecutive victory last night, the Hogs again got double-figure scoring performance from four starters, and checked their opponent's too with their tight zone defense.

While TCU's Dick O'Neal tallied 28 points for the five field goals, only one in the first half, O'Neal got his big total by sinking 18 of 19 foul shots.

Manuel Whitley, the lean, swift Arkansas ace, again paced the Porks, grabbing 13 rebounds and scoring 21 points, including 16 from the field. Buddy Smith dropped in 16, Jerald Barnett added 13 and Terry Day 12. The other starter, center Pete Butler, was held to only 8 points.

Arkansas went into the lead at the start of the contest, and with O'Neal virtually silent, ran up a 63-49 lead midway of the second half. TCU then started its move, and slowly cut the Porks lead to 10 points and with 2:30 remaining to be played. Then in a desperate drive to the wire, the Frogs netted 12 points, while Arkansas could score only four.

The game marked the return to collegiate basketball of Don Trumbo, who should provide some of the best strength which Arkansas needs so badly. Trumbo, a high school flash at Fayetteville, joined the Marines two years ago, and reentered school this semester. The tall, lithe center scored only two points in last night's effort, but played well on defense, capturing several rebounds.

Besides the Arkansas-SMU tilt Saturday, other games match fifth-place Baylor against last place Texas at Austin, and third-place Rice against Lamar Tech at Beaumont in a non-conference contest.

Pro Expansion Is Discussed
 PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Expanding from 12 to 14 teams is a "definite part" of the future of the National Football League, Commissioner Bert Bell said yesterday.

Miami and Buffalo were named as possible league cities of the future. The league is investigating both cities, Bell said, to determine if either could qualify for NFL membership.

"There is nothing immediate about this thing," Bell said. "Miami and Buffalo are being considered strictly as a part of a possible expansion move." He emphasized there was no team in the league now which contemplated moving its franchise, and no team for sale.

Bell said the NFL would be ready to expand when the bottom teams in the league's two conferences each win at least four games. At that time, he feels, the competition will be even enough to permit an increase to 14 teams. "That's not too far away either," he added.

Americans Are Assured Figure Skating Victory

By TED SMITS

CORTINA D'AMPEZO, Italy (AP)—Lovely Tenley Albright of Newton Center, Mass., skated a brilliant ice ballet before an Olympic throng of 10,000 today virtually to clinch the women's figure skating championship for the United States.

Only a superb performance by Little Carole Heiss of Ozone Park, N. Y., could keep the new England pre-medical student from the title.

The crowd went wild as Tenley performed a well-nigh perfect program. The judges gave her a bunch of 5.8s for her show—a terrific score. The maximum marking is six.

Dressed in a brief rose-colored dress, the American girl, who won a silver medal at the last Olympic games, put on a very difficult program. Her leg, gashed before the winter games opened did not seem to bother her.

The sun disappeared behind the Dolomite Peaks as the 20-year-old beauty — four times American champion — put on her championship performance.

Sixteen-year-old Carole Heiss was still to compete. She had finished behind Tenley, in second place, in the compulsory school figures.

It seemed certain that one of the two would be the next Olympic figure skating champion — the first time the United States has ever held the crown.

Historical Drama Comes to Television

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Something very good in the way of historical drama is coming to television. On Feb. 11, a week from Saturday night, "Ford Star Jubilee" CBS-TV will present a dramatization of "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" by Jim Bishop.

Its audience reception should provide a good measure of just how widespread in this interest in the Civil War. "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" is an excellent account of Lincoln's last day, so dramatic in its telling that one half-believes its inevitable ending cannot possibly come to pass.

Raymond Massey plays Lincoln in the TV dramatization. Jack Lemmon plays the role of assassin John Wilkes Booth, and Lillian Gish the role of Mary Todd Lincoln. Charles Laughlin serves as narrator.

One can't help feel, however, that the star of this production is Jim Bishop, a long-time newspaper man whose personality is as direct and even as his writing. He had no part in the TV adaptation and he'll merely be looking at the set along with the rest of us. But this is his baby, nurtured for 25 years while he was a re-write man for New York newspapers, a magazine writer and telling at five other published books.

"I can't remember the time when I wasn't interested in Lincoln," Bishop said the other day. "In 1930, when I was doing newspaper rewrite, I got interested in the fact that scarcely any two stories agreed on what happened in the details of Lincoln's assassination. A reporter is used to such a state of affairs and he's used to digging to get the facts straight I started digging."

He read millions of words and began keeping 23 looseleaf notebooks, each marked with an hour of the fatal day, April 14, 1865, from 7 a.m. to 7 a.m. The three extra ones he labeled "The Conspirators," "The Lincoln Family" and "Washington City—Era." He winnowed and weighed the evidence of the times. Three years ago he went to Washington and read seven million words from witnesses in Army and Library of Congress files.

"The writing was easy," Bishop said. "It took me only 35 days. I write fast and I don't rewrite my copy. That's the advantage of newspaper training. A newspaper man has only one chance to write a story. He never can revise his story the next day."

Just a Corpse at Twilight

By Robert Martin

Copyright 1955 by Robert Martin

THE STORY: James Bennett, private investigator, found the dead body of a widow, Mrs. Alice Osborn. Bennett had been trying to learn if Mrs. Osborn's late husband Frank had died from industrial causes. Prior to discovering the body, someone took a shot at Bennett. Sheriff Abner Cornwell, who believed the bullets were strays from guns of young hunters, now can't find a youth who was hunting with a .22 near the Osborn home at the time of the shootings.

CHAPTER XVI

I said, "I'd better get back to town. Are you going to the funeral?"

"I figure on it," He drained his glass.

"Maybe we can go together," I suggested.

He placed his glass carefully on the table and his little bloodshot eyes peered at me. "You got a sort of feeling for Alice Osborn? Is that why you want to pay your respects?"

"I don't know," I said slowly, realizing that I really didn't know. "I'm interested in her husband's case, and I was the one who found her."

My voice trailed off. His head nodded up and down. "Alice kind of gets you—got you, I mean—just looking at her. She got you, didn't she, even if she was dead?"

"She was attractive."

"If I was 20 years younger, I'd have given Doc Jarrett and Wilbur Tweed a run for Alice. She was my kind of woman, friendly and easy-going, good-looking, but not too good-looking and smart, too." He fingered his empty glass and scowled at me, his heavy black brows joining over the bridge of his thin blade of a nose, and said abruptly, "You don't figure on doing that autopsy on Frank, do you, now that Alice is gone?"

I was getting a little weary of the question. "Certainly. Why not?"

"Doc Jarrett won't allow it. He told me so, and he's the coroner. And Wilbur Tweed talked to me about it, and he said he won't let you use his place to do it in. And you can't get Alice's permission, now that she's dead. Where does that leave you? Out in the cold, if you ask me."

I remembered suddenly that I hadn't mailed Alice Osborn's signed release to Austin O'Connor, and I tapped the right side of my coat. "I've got Mrs. Osborn's permission in writing to do the post mortem on her husband." Almost before I spoke, I knew it was a mistake.

"Oh so that so?" he said softly. "Fast work, huh? When, may I ask, did Alice give it to you?"

"She mailed it," I lied.

"That so? Yesterday, out at her place, you told me you went there to see her about it, and you found her dead. How could she mail it?"

"I talked to her on the phone on Friday. I mailed the form to her and she signed it and sent it back to me." I was making it worse, I thought, he had trapped me.

"How?" he asked, hunching forward. "How could Alice do that? If you mailed it to her last evening, when I saw you at the post office she wouldn't get it until this morning, and if she signed it and mailed it right back you would never have it until Monday, or maybe tomorrow, if your hotel picks up its mail. But you didn't get it today, not in the mail."

"All right," I said, grinning at him, "if you want to get technical, I mailed her the form last night. She got it this morning, before she was killed, signed it and put it in an envelope stamped and sealed and addressed to me. I found it by the phone, all ready to mail."

"That's better," he said with grim satisfaction. "Don't try to get cagey with me, son. I been around a long time. So you just took it, huh?"

"It was addressed to me."

"But it was still in her house, the property of a dead woman. The law decides who gets what in a case like that."

To Feature Constitution on Omnibus

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"For some time," says Joseph Nye Welch, "I've been concerned that so many people have so dim a perception of the Constitution and that it does in safeguarding their liberties."

"Almost any strong, rugged guy can make people forget there is a Constitution around. I felt it was time that as many people as possible were refreshed on the nature of the Constitution. The perfect medium for communication seemed to be television. So I got in touch with Omnibus. It seemed that if any program had the courage to try the idea, Omnibus would."

Omnibus did, and so, next Sunday afternoon it will present the first of a three-part study of that living document, the Constitution, on CBS-TV.

Welch, you remember, is the tall Boston lawyer of gentle manner and very speech who served as special counsel to the Army in its disagreement with Sen. Joseph McCarthy and his aides in 1954. Welch became well known to the nation's TV audience then. Now, at the age of 64, he's come here from his home in Walpole, Mass., to serve as a visible, audible guide to the television audience when Omnibus takes up the subject of the Constitution.

"There's a bit of the ham in every trial lawyer," Welch said drily. "But I'm not being integrated into the program as an actor. I have no future as an actor. But I think I have a little future as a lawyer."

Welch impresses you as the ideal person to serve as a guide. Large but not florid, acute but not sharp, he's the sort of lawyer you want to call "Judge" because he shows vast wisdom of human nature.

Character actors will play the many historic roles of the framers and changers of the Constitution. But they won't speak glib lines cooked up for them on Madison Avenue in 1956. In dramatic flash-backs they will speak the actual words written and spoken by the men who made and developed the Constitution.

JUDGE TOLD HIM

TAVARES, Fla., (UP) — Bob Pepper of Lady Lake, Fla., wished today he had heeded a judge who warned him he would wind up in a cemetery unless he stopped drinking.

Police, who arrested Pepper yesterday for driving while intoxicated, said his car had wrecked a $400 tombstone in the Lady Lake cemetery.

Canada is divided into five natural regions — the Laurentian Plateau, the Atlantic Coast region, the St. Lawrence Lowlands, the Great Plains and the Western Mountains.

then I'm through being polite or kind or even faint. I stood up and I said, "Try and get it."

His crafty old eyes shifted and there was a sudden sour look around his mouth, and I saw him glance furtively at the hefty young bartender.

"Go ahead," I invited.

"Deputize Roy."

Markets Offer Choice Cuts and Prices

By The Associated Press
You'll find choice cuts of beef at moderate prices almost everywhere this weekend. A midwest chain has trimmed six cents a pound from prices of its sirloin steaks and rib roast; other supermarkets are promoting various cuts of beef as weekend specials.

Pork, in contrast, is sharply higher this week. Gains range up to 10 cents a pound in some cities, market analysts say prices will go higher still. The upturn is looked upon as pretty much of a season affair.

Another popular bargain item that's heading higher this week is chicken. They're still low enough, however, to rate as a fairly good buy for thrifty eaters. Roast turkey is on the weekend special list in some parts of the country. Egg prices are down a little. Seafood is abundant and cheap.

Florida citrus fruits are still among the best buys on produce counters this week, with oranges outstanding buys in vegetables include iceberg lettuce, potatoes, onions, turnips and greens.

You may find yourself paying slightly higher prices for potatoes in the near future. The government has been buying up surplus stocks; Uncle Sam's spud purchases between September and mid-January ran to about 9½ million bushels. And cold weather in the Deep South has damaged early plantings.

Many Beauties in Recruiting Film

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Okla. A&M College Air Force ROTC officers, say new "flight" plans had been filed for a recruiting film after a preview showed more bathing beauties than bombers.

Col. Clarence H. Breedlove, director of the Aggie air detachment, said he had no doubt but what the film would stimulate more men to join up for advanced ROTC courses, but he wasn't so sure how it would go over the taxpayers and other audiences.

The film was made during the Aggie cadets' trips to such places as Las Vegas, Nev., and other scenic spots. The ROTC had planned to show it to civic groups.

LOVE AND MARRIAGE—Celebrating a golden wedding anniversary is quite an achievement, but it has nothing on Mrs. Anna Ramsey, 97, second from left, of Cleveland, Ohio. She's seen two of her children celebrate theirs. And in two years another one will reach the mark. At left is her daughter, Mrs. Fred Weiler, who with her husband Fred, standing behind her, has just reached 50 years of marriage. At right, seated, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Ramsey, who have been married 48 years. Standing at right is Mrs. Katie Ramsey, who celebrated 50 years of marriage a decade ago. Her husband, William, Anna Ramsey's son, died two years later.

Groundhog Is Hoax, Insists Weatherman

CHICAGO (AP)—The U. S. Weather Bureau today issued its annual statement discrediting the groundhog as a competent forecaster.

But the official forecasters were a bit more lenient in their attitude toward other weather prophets, saying that they're not all right for all times in all places.

Which, of course, is just about what some folks say about the Weather Bureau.

The inapplicability of some weather sayings to our land is obvious, says the bureau, because many of the most popular ones originated thousands of years ago in North Africa and, later, in Europe.

Locality is of utmost importance in considering weather proverbs, it seems.

For instance, the Weather Bureau advises that on the Pacific Coast the moisture bearing winds blow in from the west and the southwest. On the other hand, in the east they come from the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic.

Therefore, "A western wind carries water in his hand" and "When the east wind toucheth it shall wither" would apply only to the West Coast.

But, east of the Rockies, the more applicable proverb would be: "When the wind is in the west the weather is always best."

One of the more popular sayings is "the south wind warms the aged." Actually, says the Weather Bureau, the south wind "is about the wettest, stormiest and generally least pleasant of winds in our states bordering the Gulf of Mexico."

The Weather Bureau says the groundhog myth is plain bunk.

Nevertheless, the official opinion added that any furry friend probably will stay out in most of the Midwest and the East—and get his nose mighty cold in the snow.

Alston Thinks Brooklyn Will Keep Hustling

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Alston sees no danger of complacency on his 1956 Brooklyn Dodgers' after their first World Series success.

"They all know they had to hustle to get up there and they'll have to keep hustling to stay," Alston said yesterday after signing to manage the Dodgers again for a reported $32,500 salary. "They all realize this is another year."

Alston pointed to catcher Roy Campanella, pitcher Don Newcombe and third baseman Jackie Robinson as he spoke of his hopes for the new season. He discussed the problem of the Dodgers' advancing ages.

"Campy, Newk and Jackie look pretty good to me," he said. "I think they all lost weight since the end of the season. Although they're a year older, they'll still get us plenty of runs."

"Pitching could be a problem, if we still have some arms. It all depends on how Carl Erskine, Karl Spooner and Billy Loos come around. Roger Craig and Don DeSantis should be better but you never can tell about young pitchers."

Alston singled out second baseman Charley Neal (274), outfielder Gino Simoli (1300) and pitcher Ken Lehman (22-9) as newcomers from the Montreal farm with "good reports."

"Admitting the Dodgers had 'as good a chance as anybody else,'" Alston cautiously listed New York, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia as the top opposition.

"We don't know how long Johnny Podres will be around before he goes into the Army. But he should be a better pitcher after that job in the Service," he said.

As for the third base rivalry between Ransom Jackson, the former Chicago Cub who was acquired in a December trade, and Robinson, Alston said it will have to be worked out in spring training.

Bow, Arrow Hunter Killed in N. Dakota

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A hunter is shot and killed in North Dakota, and a remarkable safety record falls.

Not just for North Dakota, but for the whole nation. And not for hunting in general, because more than 1,000 hunters are wounded annually and more than 200 killed by firearms just in the 24 states that cooperate in the uniform hunter casualty report.

But Max Garcia, wounded fatally in the woods near Hazen, N. D., last Oct. 3 was the first hunter in modern times to be killed by a bow and arrow.

The bowhunters, who date their modern activities from 1934 when the first special bow hunting season on big game was set in Wisconsin, have been proud of their record.

Carl Hulbert, editor of the National Bowhunter magazine, estimates there were 200,000 licensed bowhunters afield last season, most of them for many days each and most of them after big game. In 21 years, several million archers have taken their weapons afield, from coast to coast. Yet not only was Garcia's death the first fatality recorded, but lesser casualties are few.

Garcia was hit in a freak accident, Hulbert reports. He had been stalking a deer with another hunter and took his place on a stand while the other hunter circled. Garcia then left his stand and moved in on the circle. The other hunter stalked close to the deer, which was standing on the top of a ridge. When he shot, the arrow continued past the deer over the hill and hit Garcia, in the woods about 60 yards downhill.

Japs Don't Object to H-Bomb Test

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has informed the United States it has no objection to proposed hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific this year, but has asked that precautions be taken, Kyodo News Service said today.

Through a request filed in Washington Jan. 20 by Ambassador Sadao Iguchi, Japan asked that:

1. Advance notice of the place, time and size of the danger zone.
2. Warning on the scale and expected damage.
3. Compensation be made for any damage.

Protestant Group Will Visit Russia

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP)—An eight-member delegation of American Protestant leaders was named today to make a 10-day visit to Russia in an effort to increase "mutual understanding."

It will be the most broadly representative church contact with religion in Russia in 40 years.

The group will go under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches, the nation's largest religious agency. It includes 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations with 35 1/2 million members.

The trip, to begin March 9, will be the first part of a two-way exchange, with Russian Orthodox church leaders coming to this country in June.

In announcing plans for the trip, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, council president, told a meeting of the council's 250-member governing General Board.

"While we cannot be sure that agreement can or should be reached at many points, we do hope that under the guidance of Almighty God this exchange of visits will contribute toward a large measure of understanding and good will."

The delegation will include presiding heads of several major American denominations, among them:

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church; the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church, and Dr. Blake, administrator of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Also going are prominent officials of the Methodist, American Baptist and Congregational Christian churches, and church specialists in international affairs. One of them, Dr. Paul B. Anderson (Congregational Christian), member of the council's International Affairs Department, speaks Russian.

Best Valentine Family Could Have--Homemade Cherry Cake!

Put your heart into a special cake creation for your February 14th party. If you have no party plans, this colorful Cherry Valentine Cake will be a delightful surprise for the family, especially when they discover it is homemade—cake at its delicious, fresh best!

For the greatest of cake-making ease, the Cherry Valentine Cake recipe follows a 17-minute one-bowl method. Directions are simple and ingredients are quick to assemble. The minimum of preparation time is involved and the results are rewarding. It's a sure compliment-catcher. All you need is the inclination. Perhaps we have furnished the inspiration.

Before starting, it is worth while to remember that one-bowl method cakes require double-acting baking powder and the soft, emulsifier-type shortening. Start heating your oven to 350°F. before you begin to mix.

Cherry Valentine Cake
2-1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1-1/3 cups Imperial Granulated Sugar
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup soft shortening
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice (from 8-oz. bottle)
16 maraschino cherries, cut in eighths
1/2 cup milk
4 unbeaten egg whites
1/2 cup, finely chopped nuts

Sift together into large mixing bowl, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add shortening, cherry juice, cherries, and milk; stir to dampen flour. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed 2 minutes. Add unbeaten egg whites; beat 2 minutes longer. Fold in nuts. Pour batter into 2 paper-lined 8 x 1-1/2" round pans. Bake at 350°F. 30 to 35 minutes.

All Arkansas Lawmakers to Run Again

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of the formal announcements remain to be issued but at this time there appears no doubt that all members of the Arkansas Congressional Delegation whose terms expire next January will be seeking reelection this year.

This means all House members—Reps. Norrell, Mills, Gathings, Harris, Hays and Trimble—and Sen. Fulbright, all Democrats.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) was re-elected in 1954 to his third 6-year term.

Only Rep. Norrell has made a formal announcement of candidacy but the others have given clear indications they will ask the voters to renew their contracts.

Because of the seniority which goes with long service in Congress, the Arkansas delegation is a pretty potent group. Its members hold two committee chairmanships, any number of subcommittee chairmanships and high rank on many important committees.

The importance of committee positions comes about because most of the real work on legislation is done in committees, not on the Senate or House floors.

McClellan is chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee and its investigating subcommittee. He's also sixth Democrat on the Appropriations Committee, sixth on the Judiciary Committee, a member of the latter group's Internal Security subcommittee, and a member of the Senate Democratic Steering Committee.

Fulbright is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee and a third Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee. He also is a member of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report.

On the House side Rep. Norrell, dean of the delegation, is sixth Democrat on the Appropriations Committee; Gathings is fourth on the Agriculture Committee; Mills is second on the tax writing Ways and Means Committee; Harris is second on both the Commerce Committee and the District of Columbia Committee; Hays is eighth on the Foreign Affairs Committee and Grimble fifth on the Rules Committee which is the traffic control committee through which legislation passes to reach the House.

Mills also is one of three or four House members frequently mentioned as possibilities for the speakership whenever Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) steps down. Mills is a member also of the Joint Committees on the Economic Report and on internal revenue.

Harris is a regional whip, responsible for keeping in touch with members from Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee and advising the leadership when they plan to vote on key issues.

In preparation for the 1956 primary and general elections, the Arkansas members of Congress generally spent the late summer and fall months in the state meeting people and "feeling the pulse."

If they follow their usual custom, the delegation members will gather in Norrell's office in a few weeks, formally announce for new terms and send their declarations to the Democratic State Committee and the secretary of state.

Norrell announced his candidacy last year in the wake of reports that former Gov. Sid McMath might seek his seat.

Gathings, Mills and Norrell are completing their ninth 2-year terms; Harris is winding up his eighth term; Hays his third 6-year term.

Not Running for Anything, Says Truman

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today he doesn't want to run for any kind of political office again, much less the presidency.

"I'm just a retired has-been," said he.

"I believe I have served my country. If I were 46 or 50 that might be different." He will be 72 in May.

The subject came up as he took heat briskly for some time periods as above. Use full sweeping strokes around the bowl, cutting through the center every 5 or 10 strokes. Allow 150 strokes per minute.

After cooling, the cake is ready to put on its Valentine "party dress." This frosting does the trick beautifully:

Cherry Frosting
1/2 cup butter or margarine
Pinch of salt
3 cups sifted Imperial Confectioners Powdered Sugar
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice
1/4 cup well-drained, chopped maraschino cherries, if desired.

Thoroughly cream butter, salt and 1 cup of the sifted sugar. Add alternately, the remaining sifted sugar and Maraschino cherry juice, beating until very smooth and of spreading consistency. Add chopped cherries, if desired.

To Ornament The Cake

Put 1 tablespoon water, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla in small bowl. Gradually blend in 1 cup sifted Imperial Confectioners Powdered Sugar; mix until smooth. If necessary, add more sugar to thicken. Tint red with food coloring. Use in decorator to outline heart pattern in center of cake; write greeting or name. If you want more elaborate decorations, double the ingredients.

his customary morning stroll, accompanied by 25 newsmen—including one photographer who wore roller skates.

"May I borrow those skates?" Truman inquired with a laugh.

He was asked about the possibility he might be drafted if the Democratic National Convention should deadlock on a presidential nominee this year.

Truman reminded reporters of what Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman once said: If nominated, he would not run, and if elected not serve.

Truman said he would take that as his statement too, and added:

"The presidency is a killing job and a man must be young enough and vigorous enough to meet that situation."

He said the office "has killed many a man—I could name a half dozen."

Asked whether he felt President Eisenhower should seek re-election Truman said that question should be put to Eisenhower himself.

Truman is here to address a Democratic dinner tomorrow night. Asked if he would "give 'em hell"—meaning the Republicans—in his speech, he replied: "I never give them hell. I just tell the truth and they think it is hell."

Television Has Key Role in Politics

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—As the political battle grows hotter in this election year the new weapon of television has an increasingly heavy—and more controversial—role.

Whereas an office-seeker addresses hundreds from the rear platform of a train, he speaks to millions when he confronts a television camera.

In the general election din this year, you'll frequently hear voices crying "Equal time." This means that somebody got winged and wants a chance to stand up and wing an opponent or an idea in return.

Equal time on television is a sporting, democratic, American ideal. The only trouble with it is that it simply will not work every time the adversaries want it to worm. The networks, alertly mindful of their obligations, adhere to the ideal as closely as they can. But if, as this year grows older, they granted equal time to everybody who wanted it there would be little time left for anything else.

Last week Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson called for equal time—or its equivalent. He felt that Ed Murrow's See It Now on CBS-TV had done wrong by his farm policies in a program entitled "The Farm Problem: Crisis in Abundance." The Secretary appeared briefly on the program, but he wanted more time to come back and rectify what he claimed was a "distorted impression of the farm picture."

Then, before CBS had received his formal request for time, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) raised up and said that if the network gave Benson time, he wanted time to reply to Benson. The specific words of his telegram were:

"If time is granted to the secretary of agriculture, I respectfully request an opportunity to share the program or be given equal time."

Now if Humphrey receives that time, what is to prevent a Republican senator from an agricultural state to request equal time to answer him? And that senator, whoever he might be, could rightfully argue that if Humphrey received it, he should too.

There is no easy panacea for solving the television industry's problem of equal time. It seems that each case in this tense election year will have to be worked out on its own merits.

Quotations of Several Folks of Note

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. James E. Folsom on the Alabama legislature's "nullification" resolution of the Supreme Court desegregation ruling:

"For the legislature to declare Supreme Court rulings null and void is like a dog barking at the moon and claiming it's treed."

LONDON — Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the archbishop of Canterbury, disputing the Encyclopedia Britannica's claim that King Henry VIII divorced two of his wives: "He had the marriages annulled, which is a quite different thing from divorce. Annulment says there was no marriage at all and therefore you are free to marry."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Clarence Adams, 25-year-old former Negro soldier who refused Korean repatriation and went to Red China, on his life behind the Bamboo Curtain.

"I might be doing all right here, but there is no place like home. I would like to be home."

BALTIMORE — Henry L. Mencken—author critic, language authority and the "sage of Baltimore" who died Sunday—in his epitaph written several years ago: "If, after I depart this vale, you have ever remembered me and have thoughts to please my ghost, forgive some sinner and wink your eye at some homely girl."

By HAL BOYLE

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Many old-time industrial leaders thought he did a workman a favor by keeping him on the payroll.

This breed of boss is rapidly vanishing from the American scene. He is being replaced by executives who recognize that employee loyalty is a keystone in any successful business if it is to endure.

A leading spokesman of the "happy shop" principle in industry today is Frank G. Atkinson.

Atkinson, whose weak eyes forced him to give up his dream of becoming a professional baseball player, took a $4 a week job at 15 with the Joseph Dixon Crucible Co. here. Now at 57, he heads the firm, one of the nation's largest manufacturers of pencils, crucibles and industrial graphite paints.

During his steady rise from office boy to president, Atkinson, who comes from a long line of Methodist ministers, developed a conviction that the Golden Rule was as important in industry as it was in religious life.

"Business is people," he said. "The dignity of the individual worker is important. But applying the Golden Rule isn't merely good business. It's the only way to live."

Atkinson takes it almost as a personal blow when any one of his 1,000-odd employees quit, and he laments.

One of the greatest loss factors borne by industry today is traceable to a high rate in personnel turnover, he said. "A management which does not realize that will not succeed."

But now, can a management avoid losing its skilled employees and escape the expense of training new ones?

Atkinson feels it should pay wages "as high as the business will stand," schedule the work so as to avoid layoffs, install profit-sharing programs and pension, medical aid and insurance plans.

"But above all—and I know the value of a buck," he continued, "there is much more to keeping people than just the amount you pay them or the extra benefits they get. They have to be recognized, to feel that they themselves are essential to the success of the business."

"Before we go outside to bring someone in to fill an important post, we look over everyone on the payroll to see if we can't find one who can be advanced within the organization."

"We encourage our people to study and prepare for a better job. We sometimes even pay their tuition."

The incentive program seems to

BLAMED—Japan's Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu faces a no-confidence vote for his failure to gain Japan's admission to the United Nations. The powerful Socialist party is demanding his resignation, blaming Japan's rejection on Shigemitsu's "mistaken knowledge of and policy regarding Nationalist China's attitude and his failure to restore relations with the Soviet Union."

have paid off. The 129-year-old firm has never had a strike. When outside interests threatened to get financial control of the company several years ago the employees bought stock themselves and prevented it.

"About 40 per cent of the employees now own stock," Atkinson said. "We think that's a good thing, but we don't campaign for it."

Atkinson feels opportunity has never been greater in industry, that it has never been easier to get good business training. But it worries him that many young men today prefer the security of a safe job with seniority to the risks, challenges and rewards of management.

"They ought to knock that spirit out of their heads," he said. "It isn't the American idea, nor is it to look for something safe and easy."

"Business isn't work. It's a baseball game. Maybe we ought to find another word for hard work."

"Nothing you're really interested in is work. What is happiness anyway? When you become so interested in your job you are unconscious of the passing of time, you are truly happy."

Stenographers May Have to Learn Again

By ED CREAUGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bad news, stenographers: You may have to go back to school and learn to type all over again.

But there's a bright side to it: your fingers might get a lot less tired under a new keyboard system which the government begins testing today. And your employer—the American taxpayer—in this case—stands to save a tidy sum if the new keyboard does all that's claimed for it.

Twenty-four government girls from 10 federal agencies are taking part in the four-month test. Twelve use standard typewriters. The others work out on new keyboards, which look at first glance like a stenographer's nightmare.

For instance the familiar "home row," beginning with "A-S-D-F," starts out "A-O-I-U" on the new keyboard, developed by August Dvorak of the University of Washington. And the row of figures at the top goes "7-5-3-1-9-0-2-4-6-8" in stead of starting at 1 or 2 and going straight on up.

All this is supposed to shift the main work load from the left hand to the right. Since most typists are righthanded the system's backers say the result is 35 per cent more production by the average typist.

Since the government uses more than 600,000 standard machines at a cost of some $125 apiece, General Services administration, the government's housekeeping agency figured it was worth while converting some machines to the new keyboard at a cost of $15 apiece and putting some girls to work trying them out.

GSA head Edmund F. Mansure dropped in yesterday for a trial run of the experiment. He shook hands with each girl and wished her well, but said:

"We're not endorsing this system. We only want to know if it works. If some other system works better, that's the one we'll want."

NO QUAKE

MIAMI, (UP)—Police calmed anxious North Miami residents who telephoned reports of an "earthquake" yesterday.

The "deep rumblings" they heard, police said, were caused by heavy gas cylinders rolling down the street after they were spilled from a truck involved in a collision.
